

The sum that the Russian government is ready to allocate to support car industry in 2015, is rising gradually – during the implementation of new sector programs, designed to support directly or indirectly the automakers or stimulate sales in the automotive market.

We are talking about the amount of USD 2.5 billion.

The complex of measures of the automotive industry, which the government implements and plans to implement in the future, was announced at the third convention of ROAD by the director of the department of transport and special engineering of Ministry of Industry and Trade, Alexander Morozov. Some of them have already started, others are ready to start in June and July, in the third and fourth quarter of 2015.

Government incentives of car market with programs that have already begun to be implemented in the country, according to conservative estimates of Ministry of Industry and Trade, should bring the additional sales of more than 400 thousand transport units.
